

Best arm identification in bandit problems

Peter Auer

University of Leoben

I will discuss some recent results, one relying on the law of the iterated logarithm, and another on allocation strategies for finding the best arms in several bandit problems simultaneously. Then I will show how this results can be further improved and extended.